

Mr. Almarri,

I was saddened to hear about the death of your father.

I know how difficult the receipt of this news must have been for you. My thoughts and prayers are with you at this time.

I understand from my staff that your father played a significant role throughout your life.

I know that you will miss your father very much. I encourage you to draw on your inner strength and it is my hope that you gained some measure of comfort during your recent conversation with your family.

Keep in mind that my staff is available and willing to assist you. I also hope that you found the recent visits from the Imam beneficial.

May God bless you during this time and always,
